An Ohio man wants a divorce because his wife kicked him while he was praying. Possibly he was praying that he might become a widower before it was too late.

Dr. Lyman Abbott says that wealth is a danger. There is an astonishing number of people not renowned for courage in other affairs who would be willing to face it.

Each citizen should do his part in the beautifying of the city, therein lying the secret of the city beautiful. Don't overlook the little things in this regard that lie at your own door.

Mr. Carnegie, who holds it a crime for a man to die rich and who professes his chief concern to be how to dispose of his millions before his death, was no doubt somewhat relieved on opening his mail on a recent morning and finding in it applications for $1,000,000 each from no less than five Western colleges.

Late estimates put the next orange crop considerably below one million boxes. A large portion of the bloom which came out fell before opening. Many trees had no bloom at all. The groves in the Southern tier counties of the orange belt show as scant bloom as the groves in the more Northern counties.

The biggest land fraud of any has been unearthed in which vast areas of coal land have been acquired from the government at $1.50 instead of $20 an acre as required for such lands by the government. The amounts involved under these frauds are losses to the national irrigation fund, which is derived from the sale of Western public lands.

Mrs. Weightman Walkers, the richest woman in the world and who refused to allow her sister-in-law a paltry thirty million dollars of her fortune, is said to have left Philadelphia because she was unable to get into society there. Evidently it is more difficult to get into society than into the United States Senate, if a fortune of sixty millions cannot accomplish it.

One hundred and twenty young women drew farming homesteads in the recent opening of lands in South Dakota and a matrimonial rush that resembles the gold rush to California has set in. Men from all parts of the country are offering themselves to the fortunate young women, the majority of them being college graduates from the East, which goes to show that a college education does not unfit one for matrimony.

The tomato crop of Florida this year says The Tampa Tribune, will be almost equal in value to the orange crop. Ten thousand acres are devoted to tomatoes in this State this year. At an average yield of 200 crates to the acre, which is a low estimate, the tomato crop of the State will be no less than 2,000,000 crates. At a fair return to the grower, this crop will bring into the State nearly as much as the orange crop of last season. The shipments will begin about April 1st, and will last until June 15th.

THE NEW CHARTER.

There are always men who oppose any movement to advance the welfare of their own city, and some of them do it through a lack of comprehension of the true facts, while others try to create the impression that they are defending their own fireside and that of their neighbors, and if successful in their wrong impressions would not take objection to being called the hero of the hour.

To think that any city would develop beyond an overgrown village without territory is mere nonsense. The corporate limits of a city can be extended, with fairness, and still being no great burden on the people. It is being done daily in many portions of our land and no one seems to be so over-burdened that law or equity puts a veto on such progress.

Gainesville is fast building on the vacant land within the corporate limits. With the extension of water-works and electric lights to the suburban portions, the value of property is enhanced. A residence where pure water is close at hand is preferable to one where there is nothing but surface water to drink loaded with malaria and fever germs.

Civilization must advance, and there are some who prefer the primeval forest and object to having their peaceful domain encroached upon. There should be an opportunity given them to step backward, but there should be nothing in the way of growth and advancement.

RUSSIAN BRUTALITY.

An astonishing story is told by the leading newspaper of Odessa, Russia. It says women are worked in place of horses in the neighboring district of Yeletz. This paper, The Orlovski Vestnik, sent men to investigate. Their story briefly is this: The landowner in question is a very rich young nobleman. He rides daily about his estate, making visits to the adjacent country houses or the market town. In summer he uses a costly victoria, and in winter a luxurious sleigh. His team is invariably four young peasant women, daughters of his tenants. Leather harness is made to fit them. They are attached to the tongue in pairs like horses and are guided by a rein fastened to the outer arm of each leader. He never speaks to them and uses a stinging whip freely, keeping them in a sharp trot. Very few horses are kept on his estate. All the plowing and hauling is done by teams of women. Only two are allowed to a plow, and when one gives out she is whipped brutally, sometimes fatally, and often the husband, father or brother is compelled to use the lash in the presence of this "educated young nobleman." This has been followed systematically for eight years, and yet no neighbor, man or woman, and no police official has thought of it as anything more than a joke. In no other civilized country is such a thing possible.

This was openly published as a fact by a great Russian newspaper a week ago, and has not been questioned. With all its knowledge of Russia, even Europe is mildly surprised at this.

Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan have passed laws forbidding the use, sale or manufacture of cigarettes in those States. The government and the people foresee all kinds of trouble and expense in enforcing the law, while in Japan they do the thing as easily as we make the laws. Every father whose son smokes cigarettes is fined the equivalent of five dollars. The espionage of the youth therefore falls on the proper person and the fine is sufficient to induce him to maintain a zeal in watching the youth, all of which may be good for the son, the father and the government in ways other than that of cigarette smoking.

When Governor Hanley of Indiana says he never saw the inside of a saloon, his friends don't know whether to take it as a joke or a hint.

CELEBRATES DUNNE'S ELECTION.

Bryan at Jefferson Day Banquet Declares for Public Ownership.

Chicago, April 15.—Subjects of national significance to the Democratic party were discussed by prominent orators of the party at the Jefferson club banquet at the Sherman house in commemoration of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson. The dinner, however, in a measure, resolved itself into a jollification over Mayor Edward F. Dunne, who is a director of the club, and was among the speakers who responded to toasts.

William J. Bryan and George F. Williams, of Massachusetts, were the principal speakers. Mr. Bryan chose for his subject "Thomas Jefferson," and his remarks were greeted with unstinted applause. Mr. Bryan took advantage of the occasion to congratulate Mayor Dunne on his recent election as chief executive of the city of Chicago.

Mr. Bryan took advantage of the occasion to deal with such live questions as railroad rate legislation and municipal ownership of public utilities, applying to these the tests of Jefferson's doctrines. In speaking of the railroad problems, Mr. Bryan spoke at length.

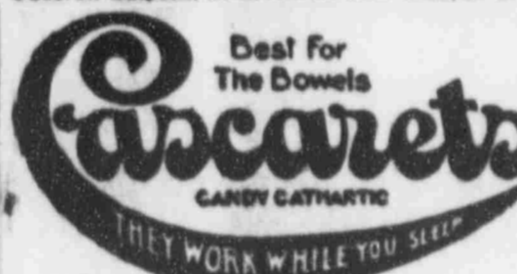

ENGLAND TO RAISE COTTON.

Britishers Believe that America Will Eventually Use All Her Staple.

London, April 15.—The duke of Marlborough, under secretary for the colonies, addressing the Bolton Cotton Spinning association on the prospective danger to the cotton trade growing out of the increased tendency of America to absorb its own production and dealing with the necessity of the British empire growing its own supplies, made the important communication that Lancashire having sent a deputation to the chancellor of the exchequer announcing the formation of an association with $1,500,000 or more of capital to be devoted to the cultivation of cotton in northern Nigeria province that the government was willing to put down five or ten millions to build a railway, the chancellor of the exchequer would consider the proposal in no unfavorable spirit.

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and used all kinds of medicines. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath having a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can willingly and cheerfully say that they have entirely cured me. I therefore let you know that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles." Chas. H. Halpern, 114 E. 14th St., New York, N. Y.
